Heads-Up Displays

These were big this year, but not as big as they could be—look for CES 2017 to include eyeglasses that let you enjoy a movie while looking alert during a boring staff meeting. iCulti showed off a system that will let you view anything from videos to spreadsheets in true HD, Headplay intro'd their tennis-visor model, TDVision coughed up a bunch of what appears to be largely vaporware, SportVue dodged the potentially lucrative mainstream with systems designed for motorcycle racing, and Private Eye Video featured the inevitable cheap Chinese knockoff, whose promotional literature breathlessly declares "WATCH XXX RATED DVD PRIVATELY EVEN IN PUBLIC ANYWHERE AND ANYTIME!!!"
